Welcome

Thanks to you and other local partners for supporting Skills Development Scotland in our work.

Youth employment is an important shared objective and we are fully committed to working in partnership with you to create opportunities for all and ensure that our young people move into, and sustain, positive destinations.

Already, together we have made significant strides in contributing to the local 'skills pipeline' for Clackmannanshire. Our input to the pipeline is focused on ensuring that the resources of a range of organisations are joined up so that young people are fully supported in their transition from full time education into training, learning or employment.

Youth employment will continue to feature strongly through our next local Service Delivery Agreement (SDA) and we'll soon be scheduling time for another workshop, using feedback gained from a recent review of the SDA process to further develop appropriate content for our next agreement.

This Briefing brings to life our work in support of young people as part of our commitment to the many activities and services aimed at driving improvements in skills development for all people in Scotland.

In the meantime, here are some highlights from our recent activity...

- We are working closely with partners to introduce activity agreements to widen the range of post school opportunities available to young people at risk of not securing a positive destination after they leave school.
- Contributing to increasing the number of young people entering a positive destination, SDS has worked with Forth Valley College to develop its new course Careers Skills to prepare unemployed school leavers for higher education applications in 2012.
- To achieve more and better employment opportunities for people in Clackmannanshire, we are working with Clackmannanshire Third Sector Interface to promote the third sector as a career option.

re:thinking a career in finance

The recent launch of re:think builds on the resources available in My World of Work, and provides a website where people can learn about working in the financial services industry in Scotland.

As with My World of Work, we are keen to reflect and respond to the complexities and variety of today's labour market and this new site brings to life what it's like to work in financial services and demonstrates what financial services businesses are looking for in new recruits. It will be a key resource for young people, providing insight into the wide variety of roles, encouraging them to consider a career in financial services and helping them identify and develop the skills needed for a career in the industry.

"Investment in Modern Apprenticeships can help businesses build more capable, efficient and loyal workforces."

Skills Development Scotland

Case study: Brook Street Autos

Leading Alva business Brook Street Autos is urging more firms to consider taking on Modern Apprentices.

William McLellan, managing director of the company said: "It takes time and money to invest in apprentices, but that investment does pay off. We have two young mechanics going through the Modern Apprenticeship programme at the moment, and they are already a valuable asset to the business.

"They are part of the team as soon as they start and they learn a great deal. The programme runs very smoothly, as the learning provider handles all of the administration which takes the pressure off."

Matthew Middlemass, 17, from Alva, joined Brook Street Autos as an apprentice mechanic two years ago.

"I enjoy working here, and I have learned a lot being able to work alongside the experienced staff," he said.

"Doing the Modern Apprenticeship has boosted my confidence because it is so hands-on and I feel like I'm really learning the trade."

Modern Apprenticeships

With Scottish Government's commitment to the largest ever number of Modern Apprenticeship (MA) places (25,000 new places in 2011/12), we led on Scotland's first ever Apprenticeship Week from 5-9 September, highlighting to employers the real difference that apprentices can make to businesses.

In today's increasingly challenging climate, we are encouraging employers to invest in the future of our young people and to realise the business benefits of taking on a Modern Apprentice.

Modern Apprenticeships offer the individual employment as well as work-based learning with the obvious benefit to employers of having a skilled member of staff. SDS supports the delivery of Modern Apprenticeships by making a significant financial contribution to this type of training.

During the inaugural week, we worked with partners to showcase Modern Apprenticeships through events, news articles and partner activity which highlighted how MAs are contributing to business success. This included a visit by Michael Russell, the Cabinet Secretary for Education and Lifelong Learning, to congratulate Zoey Rennie on completing a Modern Apprenticeship in joinery and embarking on a career with Moray Council.

Local Training Opportunities

Our joint approach with Community Planning Partnerships/ Local Employability Partnerships in contracting for Local Training Opportunities in 2012/13 includes two pre-employment programmes for individuals who need an extra bit of help getting ready for the workplace.

Get Ready for Work helps young people to develop essential employability skills and Training for Work provides vocational skills to help unemployed people aged 18+ to better meet the current needs of industry.

Employers who are interested in supporting these programmes should get in touch with their local SDS contact Ruth Higgs on ruth.higgs@sds.co.uk. Individuals should get in touch with their local SDS careers centre or job centre.

Employer Recruitment Incentive

SDS is managing the Scottish Government Employer Recruitment Incentive as part of our package of support for business, offering an incentive of up to £2,000 to employers who can take on someone as an employee or Modern Apprentice.

Businesses can access the money when they employ individuals who have gone through one of SDS's pre-employment programmes, Get Ready for Work and Training for Work, or have experienced some barriers to work in the past.

To find out more about the Employer Recruitment Incentive visit www.sds.co.uk/eri or call 0800 783 6000.
